Welcome to Owensboro!

Owensboro is Kentucky's fourth-largest city, a hidden gem nestled on a scenic bend of the Ohio River in Western Kentucky.

People who visit Owensboro are doing it on purpose – and we make it worth the trip! From Owensboro's signature barbecued mutton and burgoo to our ties to the roots of bluegrass music, Owensboro is the culinary and cultural hub of western Kentucky.

Owensboro hosts more than 20 annual festivals, including the world famous International Bar-B-Q Festival, ROMP: Bluegrass Roots & Branches Festival, East Bridge Art & Music Festival and the Western Kentucky Botanical Garden Daylily Festival.

Along with our fun festivals, there are unique attractions and special events in Owensboro nearly every week of the year.

Owensboro is home to the International Bluegrass Music Museum, the world's only facility dedicated to the history and preservation of the history of the genre which originated in western Kentucky. And don't miss the Owensboro Museum of Fine Art, the Owensboro Museum of Science and History and the Western Kentucky Botanical Garden among other world class attractions.

1815-2015

To mark Daviess County's official formation on June 1, 1815, there will be a year long community bicentennial celebration featuring many events to celebrate the county's rich history. For a detailed schedule of all of the Daviess County Bicentennial events, go to www.Daviess200.org or www.VisitOwensboro.com.

Owensboro is designated as Sports Illustrated Magazine's #1 Sportstown in Kentucky and is well known for sports and recreation options.

Centrally located among numerous Midwestern cities, Owensboro's hospitality, attractions, world class convention center and wide variety of original culinary options make it a winning choice for conventions and meetings, a fun family trip or a romantic getaway.

We invite you to visit Owensboro and explore everything we have to offer. Please feel free to contact us to experience our famous southern hospitality.

World Famous Barbecue

Barbecued mutton and burgoo are the two foods that distinguish Daviess County barbecue from other areas. Although pork, chicken, and beef are prepared, the preference of locals according to the barbecue restaurant owners is mutton (sheep) and burgoo (a stew made from mutton, other meats and vegetables). The Daviess County region has also developed a unique style of pit barbecue featuring vinegar-based sauces mopped over the meat during the lengthy smoking process. The result of this process is a delicious, tangy, and very tender meat.

The International Bar-B-Q Festival began in 1978 and is held on the second full weekend in May each year. This festival is the kick-off for the barbecue season during the summer and fall. Catholic churches throughout the area host picnics nearly every weekend until late September. These picnics are favorite family gatherings and raise funds for local charities.

Both Moonlite Bar-B-Q on West Parrish Avenue and Ole South Bar-B-Q on KY 54 offer buffet dining, carry out and catering. Fresh corn bread muffins and a variety of meats and sides are ready on the Moonlite buffet. All four Owensboro barbecue restaurants have loyal local fans, including Old Hickory Bar-B-Q on Washington Avenue which earned the Messenger-Inquirer Readers Choice Award for barbecue in 2014.

Owensboro's newest barbecue restaurant opened in November 2014, but don't mistake the proprietors of Henry's Boogalou BBQ as new to the Daviess County barbecue scene. Roy Henry's award winning Boogalou BBQ Sauce was created in 1978. For now, he and business partner Sonny Day offer carry out, delivery, specialty cooking and catering services only. Stop by Henry's Boogalou BBQ at 4313 Gate Way Drive and see what's cooking on their smoker out back.

International Bar-B-Q Festival

The competition is fierce and the flavors rich as cooking teams produce the best that their secret recipes have to offer in an effort to win the Governor's Cup, the prize awarded to the festival's best overall Bar-B-Q cooking team.

On the second weekend in May each year, teams compete in Mutton, Chicken and Burgoo and are required to cook a minimum of 600 pounds of Mutton, 300 Chickens and 60 gallons of Burgoo. Many of the teams cook more than the minimum to have plenty for sale by the gallon or pound for festival goers.

Cooking team members use wooden paddles, above, to stir giant kettles of burgoo. Burgoo is Owensboro's signature "barbecue stew." At right, wire frames are used to turn several pieces of barbecued mutton at once along large cooking pits set up in the street.

The International Bar-B-Q Festival typically attracts more than 30,000 people to the Ohio riverfront in downtown Owensboro, Ky. The award winning festival has been named a Southeast Tourism Society Top 20 Event for 2015.

Spirits is a bourbon bar under The Miller House Restaurant at 301 W. 5th Street. With exposed brick walls, locally created art and an eclectic mix of patrons, anyone coming to Spirits for the first time will feel welcome. As a bourbon bar, Spirits always has more than 300 bourbons in stock on their "Wall of Bourbon," making it the largest bourbon collection in western Kentucky.

Bourbon Legacy Reborn

During the 19th century there were more than 18 distilleries operating in Daviess County. The Charles Medley Distillery is the site of one of the oldest distilleries in Owensboro, having started operations in 1885. The facility, on Distillery Road, was the only remaining distilling operation in the county when it shut down more than two decades ago.

In May 2014, TerrePURE Kentucky Distillers Inc. announced plans to restore and reopen the historic Charles Medley Distillery to bring back bourbon distilling in Daviess County.

The company will invest $23 million to purchase and refurbish the nearly 130-year-old facility.

TerrePURE plans to renovate and repair buildings on the 28-acre site, as well as install new equipment. The goal is to have the distillery up and running during 2016.

Bourbon distilling contributes nearly $2 billion in gross state product each year. Kentucky exported $383 million worth of its distilled spirits in 2013, a full 21 percent of the U.S. total.

After Dark

Owensboro offers nightlife for everyone from the serious beer or bourbon connoisseur and the live music aficionado to the sports fan who wants to catch the game and someone interested in meeting new people and interacting with “the locals.”

Buffalo Wild Wings

Lively chain sports bar dishing up wings and other American pub grub amid lots of large screen TVs. Mon-Sat, 11a-1a; Sun, 11a-12a
4736 Frederica St • 270-686-7800

Gambrinus Libation Emporium

Locally owned non-smoking nightspot featuring and insane draft lineup, only premium liquors, a martini list to die for and quite possible the largest bottled beer selection in the area. Mon, 5-12p; Tue-Fri, 4-12p; Sat, 5-12p
116 West 2nd St. • 270-685-5464

Maloney's Pizza & Wings

Locally owned Sports Bar with free WiFi and 30 big screens featuring NFL Sunday Ticket and ESPN College Basketball Game Day. Serves pizza, salad and wings. Sun-Thur, 11a-11p; Fri-Sat, 11a-midnight

Mixology Lab at Pangea Cafe

Located within the depths of Pangea Cafe Headquarters is a secret, hidden lair that isn't really secret or hidden, because mad scientists are creating exciting drinks. The Mixology Lab delights the senses with a spectacle of tastes, smells, sights and sounds. Thur-Sat, 4-11p
1320 Carter Road • 270-689-9824

Pangea Cafe Murder Mystery Theatre

Enjoy a fabulous dinner with a live show where the audience becomes a part of the mystery! Diners are assigned a character with a backstory and objectives to complete throughout the night. Dressing up in costume is highly encouraged. Murder Mystery Theatre is basically a huge improv game of Clue – only the diners are playing the characters. Prizes throughout the night for best costume and best and worst performance. Option to choose a “detective” role and watch from the sidelines if participation isn't your thing. Typically scheduled for every other Saturday, call to confirm.

Bluegrass Music Heritage

The International Bluegrass Music Museum in Owensboro, Ky., is the world's only facility dedicated to preserving the history of bluegrass music.

Bluegrass is the official state music of Kentucky, and Bill Monroe's "Blue Moon of Kentucky" shares the distinction of being the official state song with Stephen Foster's "My Old Kentucky Home."

While popular around the world since the 1940s, bluegrass music recently enjoyed an immense resurgence with the release of the movie "O Brother, Where Art Thou?" in the year 2000.

This museum, established to preserve the history of the music Bill Monroe created, is located only a short drive from his birthplace in the small town of Rosine, Ky.

38 Years of Great Art

This white clapboard house was built on the site of the cabin where Bill Monroe was born in 1911 on Jerusalem Ridge near Rosine, Ky. The house was built around the sandstone chimney which remained after the cabin was destroyed by fire in about 1916. The house, overlooking five acres of the original 1,000-acre Monroe farm, was restored in 2001 and is filled with cherished family belongings and signs of a remarkable career.

Visit Owensboro

Owensboro is home to the International Bluegrass Music Museum, the world's only facility dedicated to the history and preservation of the history of the genre which originated in western Kentucky.

The Owensboro Museum of Fine Art, Kentucky's second largest art museum, offers national touring exhibitions, a permanent collection featuring four centuries of American and European art and special interactive galleries for children.

The Owensboro Museum of Science and History offers many hands-on adventures and a lot of local history. Discover Owensboro's NASCAR connection with a cruise through The Speedzeum. Or take a guided tour through a replica of a local coal mine to learn about how miners spent their days.
