Medical Health System

New skyline today.
New hospital tomorrow.

The structure for the new 477-bed OMHS hospital stands nine stories tall and has reshaped Owensboro's eastside skyline.

Opening in 2013, see our vision for design and construction:

Patient and Family Centered
A comforting, soothing atmosphere will enable patients to heal in a low-stress environment, while helping to put families at ease. Opportunities for wellness, prevention and health-related activities will be a priority.

Easy to Navigate
As a regional medical center, the new hospital must be easily accessible by patients traveling from surrounding counties. Once inside, patients and visitors will easily find their way through the building.

Efficient Staff and Patient Flow
The new OMHS hospital will offer a functional design that enables clinicians to provide patients with the safest and highest quality care. The standardization of patient room layouts throughout the facility will increase both staff efficiency and patient safety.

Safe Environment
Safety for patients, visitors and all staff is a priority and necessary to provide quality care and make continued advancements.

Advanced Technology
An environment that will support highly developed and changing technology is necessary to grow and make continuous improvements in patient care.

Flexible, Adaptable
Space will be used efficiently and construction will allow for future expansion to meet changing healthcare needs.

You have not experienced Owensboro until you try the world famous barbecue!

Barbecued mutton is Owensboro, Daviess County's claim to fame with more being consumed per person in this county than any other place in the world. As far back as the 1830's, churches in Daviess County were having barbecues and because farmers raised a lot of sheep, mutton was the primary meat to be cooked. This rich and zesty meat is only available in a few locations and Owensboro is the best known. It is still cooked in the traditional manner, with large pieces of mutton (adult sheep) cooked for 12 hours over hickory fires while being mopped several times during the process with a mixture of water, Worcestershire sauce, vinegar, lemon juice, salt and pepper and maybe a few secret ingredients!

What about burgoo?

Burgoo is a spicy stew, similar to Irish or Mulligan stew, often served with cornbread or corn muffins. Owensboro barbecue restaurants use a specific meat in their recipes, usually pork or mutton, which, along with the spices used, creates a distinct flavor unique to each restaurant. While burgoo in Owensboro is generally associated with special events, such as church picnics and BBQ competitions, it is sold year-round in locally owned BBQ restaurants.

Bluegrass

Kentucky's Musical Heritage

Steve Martin at ROMP 2011

Bluegrass is the official State Music of Kentucky, and Bill Monroe's "Blue Moon of Kentucky" shares with Stephen Foster's "My Old Kentucky Home" the honorable distinction of being the official Kentucky State Song. The infectiously energetic style of dance that grew up around bluegrass and old time music is clogging, the official Kentucky State Dance.

Owensboro is the home of the International Bluegrass Music Museum, established to preserve the global history of bluegrass music. The home of Bill Monroe, the Father of Bluegrass, is located 30 minutes away in the little town of Rosine, Kentucky. Jerusalem Ridge is the homeplace where he was born and grew to manhood, and where he and members of his family now rest in peace.
